

NMPCA 2017 Ghost Ranch Workshop

Lauren Karle

Sewing Clay

Slip Transferred Patterns on Slab-built Pots

A 2-day workshop at

Ghost Ranch, New Mexico

September 8-10, 2017

Details and register before August 7, 2017 at the NMPCA website: nmpca.org

Lauren Karle leads a hand-on workshop exploring pattern transferred to slabs, and then shows us all her tricks to make wonderful functional hand-build pottery.

Lauren explains, "Pattern can reference culture; it can imply time and place. In this workshop, we will slip transfer meaningful patterns onto slabs of clay. By experimenting with layers of prints, texture, painting, resist, slip trailing, and more our surfaces will be visually interesting and embedded with significance. Using our decorated slabs, we will hand build pots by darting and seaming. Lectures about pattern and form development will allow each participant to expand their ideas. We will discuss how pattern and color can be used to enhance volume, merging surface and form."
